Cohen Center for Holocaust and Genocide Studies

What is the impact of extremism and prejudice? What are the roles and responsibilities of civic leaders in a democratic society? The Civic Leadership Project, a partnership of the Cohen Center for Holocaust and Genocide Studies and the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, will explore these questions.

Spend October 7-9, 2014, in Washington, DC, tour the Holocaust Memorial Museum, and discuss the legacies and lessons of the Holocaust with museum staff and representatives of the Cohen Center. Return to New Hampshire energized and ready to share the mission of the Cohen Center to help build a more responsible future and communities in which respect and justice thrive.

Who Should Apply?

- Community leaders who work to grow communities of care
- People who are passionate about civic and community life

Goals

- To disseminate and advance knowledge about the Holocaust; to encourage reflection on the history and lessons of the Holocaust in relation to contemporary social issues; to explore the moral and spiritual questions raised by the Holocaust and our responsibilities as citizens of a democracy living in its shadow

- To connect and support community leaders in fulfilling the Cohen Center's mission "that present and future generations take responsibility for building a world free of antisemitism, intolerance, and hate"

Included in $550 cost

- Round-trip flight from Manchester, NH, to Washington, DC
- Shuttle van to and from hotel
- Two night's stay, double-occupancy, at the Holiday Inn Capital
- Dinner with Holocaust Museum representatives
- Two lunches
- Tour of Holocaust Memorial Museum's Permanent Exhibit
- Leadership program at Holocaust Memorial Museum
