NON-RESIDENTIAL FELLOWSHIPS

About Non-Residential Fellowships:

- Allow a faculty member focused time (e.g., during sabbatical leave or summer months) to pursue their scholarly interests.
- Do not require the faculty member to be in residence in a specific location. In other words, the work could be done while remaining in Keene, if you so choose.
- Often come in both short-term (a matter of weeks or a couple months) and longer-term (up to 9 or 12 months) durations.
- Although each program will vary, a typical award amount for a 9 or 12 month fellowship is around $40,000—intended to pay for the faculty member's time.

American Association of University Women (AAUW) - American Fellowships, Postdoctoral Research Leave  American Fellowships support women doctoral candidates completing dissertations or scholars seeking funds for postdoctoral research leave from accredited institutions. Applicants must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents. Candidates are evaluated on the basis of scholarly excellence, teaching experience, and active commitment to helping women and girls through service in their communities, professions, or fields of research. Postdoctoral Research Leave Fellowships offer one-year support for women who will have earned a doctoral degree by the deadline date. Postdoctoral fellowships are available in the arts and humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences; one is designated for a woman from an underrepresented group in any field. Limited additional funds may be available when matched by the fellow's institution.	November  *Check Sponsor Website for latest information
American Association of University Women (AAUW) - American Fellowships, Summer/Short-Term Research Publication Grants  Summer/Short-Term Research Publication Grants fund women college and university faculty and independent researchers to prepare research for publication. Applicants may be tenure track, part-time, or temporary faculty or new or established scholars and researchers at universities. Time must be available for eight consecutive weeks of final writing, editing, and responding to issues raised in critical reviews. Funds cannot be used for undertaking research. Applicants must have received their doctorates by the application deadline. Scholars with strong publishing records should seek other funding.	November
American Council of Learned Societies (ACLS) - ACLS Fellowships  The ACLS Fellowship Program invites research applications in all disciplines of the humanities and humanities-related social sciences. Appropriate fields of specialization include but are not limited to: anthropology, archaeology, art and architectural history, economic history, film, geography, history, languages and literatures, legal studies, linguistics, musicology, philosophy, political science, psychology, religion, rhetoric and communication, sociology, and theater studies. Proposals in the social science fields listed above are eligible only if they employ predominantly humanistic approaches (e.g., economic history, law and literature, political philosophy). Proposals in interdisciplinary and cross-disciplinary studies are welcome, as are proposals focused on any geographic region or on any cultural or linguistic group. The ultimate goal of the project should be a major piece of scholarly work by the applicant that will take the form of a monograph or other equally substantial form of scholarship. ACLS does not fund creative work (e.g., novels or films), textbooks, straightforward translation, or pedagogical projects. An ACLS Fellowship may be held concurrently with other fellowships and grants and any sabbatical pay, up to an amount equal to the candidate's current academic year salary.	October

American Council of Learned Societies (ACLS) - ACLS Postdoctoral Fellowships in Southeast European Studies Pending confirmation of funding, the American Council of Learned Societies will offer support for postdoctoral research and writing in Southeast European studies in all disciplines of the humanities and social sciences. In awarding these grants, primary considerations are the scholarly merit of the proposal, its importance to the development of the field, and the scholarly potential and accomplishments of the applicant. Priority will be given to applicants in the early part of their careers, that is, before tenure. All proposals should be for scholarly work, the product of which is to be disseminated in English. Funds awarded may not be used in Western Europe.	November
American Council of Learned Societies (ACLS) - ACLS/SSRC/NEH International and Area Studies Fellowships In order to encourage humanistic research in area studies, special funding by the National Endowment for the Humanities and the ACLS has been set aside for up to 10 ACLS/SSRC/NEH International and Area Studies Fellowships to be designated among the successful applicants to the central ACLS Fellowship competition. Scholars pursuing research and writing on the societies and cultures of Asia, Africa, the Middle East, Latin America and the Caribbean, Eastern Europe, and the former Soviet Union will be eligible for these special fellowships. Application must be made to the ACLS Fellowship Program and all requirements and provisions of that program must be met, with the additions that an International and Area Studies Fellow must be either a US citizen or a permanent resident who has lived in the US continuously for at least three years by the application deadline, and must submit a final report to both NEH and ACLS. Designation of the ACLS/SSRC/NEH International and Area Studies Fellows will be made by ACLS.	October
American Council of Learned Societies (ACLS) - Charles A. Ryskamp Research Fellowships for Assistant Professors These fellowships support advanced assistant professors and untenured associate professors in the humanities and related social sciences whose scholarly contributions have advanced their fields and who have well designed and carefully developed plans for new research. Appropriate fields of specialization include but are not limited to: anthropology, archaeology, art and architectural history, economic history, film, geography, history, languages and literatures, legal studies, linguistics, musicology, philosophy, political science, psychology, religion, rhetoric and communication, sociology, and theater studies. Proposals in the social science fields listed above are eligible only if they employ predominantly humanistic approaches (e.g., economic history, law and literature, political philosophy). Proposals in interdisciplinary and cross-disciplinary studies are welcome, as are proposals focused on any geographic region or on any cultural or linguistic group. The fellowships are intended to provide time and resources to enable these faculty members to conduct their research under optimal conditions. The ultimate goal of the project should be a major piece of scholarly work by the applicant that will take the form of a monograph or other equally substantial form of scholarship. ACLS does not fund creative work (e.g., novels or films), textbooks, straightforward translation, or pedagogical projects.	October
American Philosophical Society (APS) - APS Sabbatical Fellowships Since 1998 the American Philosophical Society has conducted a program of fellowships in the humanities and social sciences, generously supported by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, which is designed to supplement an awarded sabbatical/research leave. In 2007-2008 the Society awarded 19 sabbatical fellowships. The Sabbatical Fellowships program is open to mid-career faculty of universities and 4-year colleges in the United States who have been granted a sabbatical/research leave, but for whom financial support from the home institution is available for only part of the year. The total of institutional and external support should not exceed the academic year salary for the year in which the fellowship is held. There is no restriction on where the fellow resides; indicate the appropriateness of available resources.	October

Cattell Fund, James McKeen - Sabbatical Funds for Psychologists For over half a century, the James McKeen Cattell Fund has provided support for the science and the application of psychology. The Fund offers a program of supplementary sabbatical awards ("James McKeen Cattell Fund Fellowships"). These awards supplement the regular sabbatical allowance provided by the recipients' home institutions, to allow an extension of leave-time from one to two semesters.	December
Chiang Ching-Kuo Foundation for International Scholarly Exchange - Grants for Assistant, Associate, and Full Professors A one-year grant is available for assistant, associate, and full professors conducting research on Chinese Studies in the humanities and social sciences. The grant would provide funds to replace half of the salary of faculty on sabbatical or for time off for research and writing. If grants from other sources are also awarded to the applicant, the Foundation's grant, added to the others, should not exceed the recipient's annual salary. Applications should be accompanied by a letter of recommendation from the chairman of the department or from the university or college's dean or provost.	October
Earhart Foundation - Fellowship Research Grants (no website, contact OSPR for details) These grants are awarded upon direct application to individuals who have established themselves professionally. Such persons must be associated or affiliated with educational or research institutions. Fellowship Research Grants are intended to lead to the advancement of knowledge through teaching, lecturing, and publication. The emphasis is on such disciplines from the social sciences and the humanities as economics, international affairs, and government/politics, and philosophy.	Continuous
Getty Trust, J. Paul - Pre- and Postdoctoral Fellowships Predoctoral and Postdoctoral Fellowships provide support for emerging scholars to complete work on projects related to the Getty Research Institute's annual theme. The theme for 2009-2010 is The Display of Art. Recipients are in residence at the Getty Research Institute, where they pursue research to complete their dissertations or to expand them for publication. Fellows make use of the Getty collections, join in a weekly meeting devoted to the annual theme, and participate in the intellectual life of the Getty Center.	November
Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, John Simon - Guggenheim Fellowships The John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation was established in 1925 by United States Senator Simon Guggenheim and his wife as a memorial to a son who died April 26, 1922. The Foundation offers Fellowships to further the development of scholars and artists by assisting them to engage in research in any field of knowledge and creation in any of the arts, under the freest possible conditions and irrespective of race, color, or creed. Fellowships are awarded through two annual competitions: one open to citizens and permanent residents of the United States and Canada, and the other open to citizens and permanent residents of Latin America and the Caribbean. The Fellowships will be awarded by the Trustees upon nominations made by a Committee of Selection.	September
Howard Foundation, George A. and Eliza - Fellowships The Foundation awards a limited number of fellowships each year for independent projects in fields selected on a rotational basis. Must be mid-career professional, as defined by the Howard Foundation: Appropriate candidates for a Howard Fellowship should have completed their formal studies within the past five to fifteen years and should also have successfully completed at least one major project beyond degree requirements that would be sufficient for the awarding of tenure at a research institution or for achieving comparable peer recognition. Candidates who are already nationally and internationally recognized leaders in their fields as reflected by their promotion to full professor or by comparable recognition in their fields of endeavor are not normally eligible for a Howard Fellowship. Topic for 2010-2011: Application materials for the 2010-2011 competition in Creative Writing in English: Fiction and Poetry will be available on the web site after May 1, 2009.	November

Louisville Institute - Christian Faith and Life Grant Program The Christian Faith and Life Grant Program is undertaken in cooperation with Lilly Endowment, Inc., as part of its Christian Faith and Life Initiative. The initiative seeks to support efforts to bring the resources of the ethical, liturgical, and doctrinal wisdom of the Christian faith into closer relation to the daily lives of practicing Christians and to describe more fully how the Christian faith is actually lived by contemporary Christians of various ages, circumstances, and traditions. The Christian Faith and Life Grant Program seeks to: Identify pastors and academics already working on these issues, Encourage others to develop research projects that would advance our thinking in this area, and Generate a broader conversation in the American academic and church communities about the nature of and challenges to Christian faith and life in the contemporary world.	November
Louisville Institute - First Book Grant Program for Minority Scholars The Louisville Institute's First Book Grant Program for Minority Scholars seeks to assist junior, non-tenured religion scholars of color to complete a major research and book project, focusing on some issue pertaining to American Christianity related to the priorities of the Louisville Institute. All too often such scholars are asked to assume a heavy set of institutional responsibilities that can make it more difficult to complete the scholarly work necessary to secure tenure. As a response, this grant program seeks to enable scholars to spend an entire academic year devoted to that research project while free of other professional responsibilities. In keeping with its fundamental mission, the Louisville Institute is especially interested in identifying and supporting scholars of color who seek through their academic work to be in conversation with church leaders and to strengthen their faith communities.	February
Louisville Institute - Religious Institutions Program The Religious Institutions Grant Program supports research projects by academics and pastors dealing with how the religious core of an institution orients and shapes its mission and contemporary practice, the impact of the institutional field within which religious organizations live, the mutual interaction of religious institutions and American society, and religious institutional leadership. The Louisville Institute is persuaded that vital religious institutions are essential to a just and flourishing society. The Religious Institutions Grant program seeks to advance our understanding of the contemporary situation confronting religious institutions so that they and their leaders can respond in more informed and effective ways to the challenges they face. Among other goals, this program seeks to explore four broad issues or themes: how an organization's religious core shapes its institutional mission and contemporary practice, how the ecology of religious organizations shapes the way in which each organization carries out its mission, how religious institutions function within the context of American society, and how religious leaders can and should respond to these institutional challenges. Proposed projects should contribute significantly to our understanding of the challenges and opportunities facing religious institutions in North American society. They may employ a variety of methodological perspectives, including, but not limited to, the social sciences, history, ethics, biblical studies, or historical, systematic and practical theology. They may also be interdisciplinary in nature.	December
Louisville Institute - Summer Stipend Program The Summer Stipend Program offers grants to academics and pastors engaged in summer research projects pertaining to American Christianity, especially those related to the priorities of the Louisville Institute. The Summer Stipend is intended to support ten weeks of research and writing. Preference will be given to those proposals that address the current program priorities of the Louisville Institute: Christian faith and life, religious institutions, and pastoral leadership. Proposals on other topics are also welcome. Proposed projects may employ a variety of methodological perspectives, including, but not limited to, history, ethics, the social sciences, biblical studies, and historical, systematic, and practical theology. They may also be interdisciplinary in nature.	October

extraordinary originality and dedication in their creative pursuits and a marked capacity for self-direction. There are three criteria for selection of Fellows: exceptional creativity, promise for important future advances based on a track record of significant accomplishment, and potential for the fellowship to facilitate subsequent creative work. The MacArthur Fellows Program is intended to encourage people of outstanding talent to pursue their own creative, intellectual, and professional inclinations. In keeping with this purpose, the Foundation awards fellowships directly to individuals rather than through institutions. Recipients may be writers, scientists, artists, social scientists, humanists, teachers, entrepreneurs, or those in other fields, with or without institutional affiliations. They may use their fellowship to advance their expertise, engage in bold new work, or, if they wish, to change fields or alter the direction of their careers. You must be nominated for this program by one of the individuals named by the foundation to be a nominator for the current year. The Fellows Program does not accept applications or unsolicited nominations. Consult sponsor website.
National Academy of Education - National Academy of Education/Spencer Postdoctoral Fellowship The National Academy of Education/Spencer Postdoctoral Fellowship Program supports early career scholars working in critical areas of education research. This nonresidential postdoctoral fellowship funds proposals that make significant scholarly contributions to the field of education. The program also develops the careers of its recipients through professional development activities involving National Academy of Education members.	November
National Endowment for the Arts - Literature Fellowships-Creative Writing Fellowships Through Literature Fellowships to published creative writers and translators of exceptional talent in the areas of prose and poetry, the Arts Endowment advances its goal of encouraging and supporting artistic creativity and preserving our diverse cultural heritage. Creative Writing Fellowships enable recipients to set aside time for writing, research, travel, and general career advancement. Non-matching grants are for $25,000. Translation Projects enable recipients to translate work from other languages into English. Non-matching grants are for $10,000 or $20,000, depending upon the artistic excellence and merit of the project.	Multiple deadlines, Typically March
National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH)-Fellowships Fellowships support individuals pursuing advanced research in the humanities that contributes to scholarly knowledge or to the general public's understanding of the humanities. Applicants may be faculty or staff members of colleges or universities, or of primary or secondary schools, or independent scholars or writers. Fellowships provide support for projects that can be completed during the tenure of the award, as well as for work that is part of a long-term endeavor. Recipients usually produce scholarly articles, monographs on specialized subjects, books on broad topics, archaeological site reports, translations, editions, or other scholarly tools.	May
National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) - Summer Stipends Summer Stipends provide individuals with an opportunity to pursue research in the humanities that contributes to scholarly knowledge or to the public's understanding of the humanities. Projects should be completed during the tenure of an award or represent part of a long-term endeavor. Recipients might eventually produce scholarly articles, a monograph on a specialized subject, a book on a broad topic, an archaeological site report, a translation, an edition, a database, or other scholarly tools. NEH will support nearly any activity that will give benefit to the humanities. The Endowment will accept only two applications from any institution for this program. Of these two, at least one must be a junior faculty member. Thus, we encourage both tenured and untenured faculty to apply for this program. Adjunct or visiting faculty may apply directly to NEH. *KSC may nominate only two scholars to the NEH for this program. If multiple KSC faculty are interested in applying, an internal selection committee will be formed.	October

Sloan Foundation, Alfred P. - Sloan Research Fellowships The Sloan Research Fellowships were established in 1955 to provide support and recognition to early-career scientists and scholars, often in their first appointments to university faculties, who were endeavoring to set up laboratories and establish their independent research projects with little or no outside support. Financial assistance at this crucial point, even in modest amounts, often pays handsome dividends later to society. Under present operating procedures the total number of fellowships is allocated as follows: 23 for physics, 23 for chemistry, 20 for mathematics, 16 for neuroscience, 16 for computer science, 8 for economics, and 12 for computational and evolutionary molecular biology.	September
Smith Richardson Foundation - Domestic Public Policy Research Fellowships The Smith Richardson Foundation's Domestic Public Policy Program seeks to support the work of the next generation of public policy researchers and analysts. In 2006, the Foundation will award at least three research grants in the amount of $60,000 each to individuals who are interested in conducting research and writing on domestic public policy issues. Grantees are expected to produce a book or an article suitable for publication in a peer-reviewed journal. The grant can be used to cover the salary costs of the researcher and to underwrite research costs, such as travel, research assistance, and data acquisition. Each grant will be paid directly to, and should be administered by, the institution at which the researcher works. Preference will be given to proposals that address policy issues that have been priority areas for the Foundation's Domestic Public Policy Program during the past three years: education and school reform; income support, including research on welfare policy; child and youth development; family environment; public finance, including tax and Social Security policies; urban and criminal justice policy; regulatory policy, including environmental policy; immigration policy; and the political process. Proposals will be evaluated based on the following criteria: (1) the relevance of the analysis and findings to current and future domestic public policy debates; (2) the potential of the project to innovate in the field and to contribute to the literature on the chosen topic; (3) the degree to which research questions and analytical methods are well defined; (4) the degree to which the project will develop valuable new data or information; and (5) the publication record of the applicant.	June
Smith Richardson Foundation - International Security and Foreign Policy Program - Junior Faculty Research Grant Program The Smith Richardson Foundation's International Security and Foreign Policy Program is pleased to announce its annual grant competition to support junior faculty research on American foreign policy, international relations, international security, military policy, and diplomatic and military history. The Foundation will award at least three research grants of $60,000 each to support tenure-track junior faculty engaged in the research and writing of a scholarly book on an issue or topic of interest to the policy community. These grants are intended to buy-out up to one year of teaching time and to underwrite research costs (including research assistance and travel). Each grant will be paid directly to, and should be administered by, the academic institution at which the junior faculty member works. Projects in military and diplomatic history are especially encouraged. Group or collaborative projects will not be considered.	June
Woodrow Wilson National Fellowships Foundation - Career Enhancement Fellowships for Junior Faculty The Career Enhancement Fellowship Program provides one year of financial support, mentoring, and a Fall Retreat for participants. This program will aid the scholarly research and intellectual growth of fellows, thereby improving their success in attaining tenure. The fellowship seeks to increase the presence of minority junior faculty members, and other faculty members committed to eradicating racial disparities, in core fields in the arts and sciences. The Fellowship Program, funded by The Andrew J. Mellon Foundation and administered by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowships Foundation, provide each fellow with a one-year sabbatical stipend, and a two and one-half day annual conference. Disciplinary areas of focus include: American and English Literatures, Foreign Languages and Literatures (including area studies), Art History, Classics, History, Musicology, Philosophy, Religion, Anthropology, Demography, and Sociology. Applicant must be in the third year of the tenure track teaching appointment, teaching one of the designated fields, be able to accept a fellowship for the time period in question, and be a US citizen.	November
